Modern Slavery is a crime and a violation of fundamental human rights. It takes various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking, all of which have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty by another to exploit them for personal or commercial gain.

Derwen College is committed to ensuring that there is no modern slavery in our supply chains or in any part of our business.

Derwen College acknowledges responsibility to comply with all principles of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and will perform due diligence to provide transparency throughout the College. We are satisfied from our own due diligence there is no evidence of any act of modern-day slavery or human trafficking within our college.

Our workplace policies and procedures are kept under regular review and demonstrate our commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business relationships. Our HR policies and procedures reflect UK employment law.

The College Whistleblowing (public disclosure) Policy provides guidance to staff, students and other stakeholders on the procedure for the disclosure of information, which, in the person's reasonable belief, is in the public interest and intends to show one or more types of malpractice, impropriety or dangers as specified in the policy.

Derwen College will not knowingly support or deal with any businesses involved in slavery or human trafficking.

The Board of Trustees and Senior Management will take responsibility for implementing this policy and will provide the necessary resources to ensure that its practices are effective in ensuring that modern day slavery is not taking place.
